Original Graphic Processes

LITHOGRAPH - The artist draws directly on a flat stone or metal plate with crayons or pens. The stone is dampened with water and then rolled with ink. The ink adheres to the greasy crayon marks but not to the dampened areas. The image is then printed by pressing paper against the stone, which is referred to as "pulling the print."

ETCHING - The image is created by the artist on a metal plate by means of engraving tools or acid. This produces the sunken line which will receive the ink. In printing, the ink settles in the sunken areas and the plate is wiped clean. The plate, in contact with damp paper, is passed through a roller press, and the paper is forced into the sunken areas to receive the ink.

COLLOGRAPH - The printing surface on the plate is built up by applying various materials and/or plants. This produces a textured effect on the paper when printed.

SERIGRAPH - A tightly stretched screen, usually of silk, is prepared by the artist. Areas not to be printed are blocked out by filling up the mesh of the screen with a varnish-like substance, leaving a stencil-type effect. Paper is placed under the screen and ink forced through the still open mesh onto the paper. A separate stencil is used for each color. This is also referred to frequently as a "silk screen print."

Believe me, "NEW" is a word you're going to be hearing a lot of. So much is on the drawing board to enhance our already beautiful community... NEW SIGN! NEW GOLF COURSE! NEW OFFICE COMPLEX!

Keep your eyes & ears open. You are now living in the center of a NEW BEGINNING!!!!

Please call Wendy at 685-1222 to volunteer. Remember, it's only once per month.
